

SCHOOL LUNCHBOXES

READ THE TEXT AND ANSWER TO QUESTIONS BELOW

In many English-speaking countries, children don't always eat in a school canteen. Instead, they bring a lunchbox from home. Inside the lunchbox, there is usually a sandwich made with white or brown bread. Popular fillings are ham and cheese, jam, or peanut butter.

Apart from the sandwich, children usually have a piece of fruit, like an apple or a banana. They also pack a small snack, like a bag of crisps (chips) or a cereal bar. For dessert, they might have a yogurt or a small chocolate biscuit. To stay hydrated, they drink water or a small carton of fruit juice. It is a quick and tasty way to eat at school!

Questions

Where do many children in English-speaking countries get their lunch?

What is the most common main food found inside a lunchbox?

Can you name two examples of fruit mentioned in the text?

What do children usually drink with their lunch?

What are "crisps"? (Are they a healthy fruit or a crunchy snack?)

